Conrad Jacobs is the Managing Director and Industrial Specialist at Affinity Indianapolis. He has represented the corporate real estate needs of companies throughout the midwest and the continental United States for the past 17 years. He specializes in local, regional, and national “Best in Class” services that include: tenant representation, landlord representation, buyer representation, multi-market corporate services, and site selection on behalf of developers throughout several major markets. He has completed a wide range of assignments and strategic planning projects including site acquisitions, property disposition, investment sales, complex leasing projects, portfolio optimization transactions and ground-up development requirements.

During his real estate career, he has completed many high level and strategic negotiations that have resulted in achieving major cost savings for his clients. He has been a strategic local and regional representative for his clients and new client referrals. He had assembled Best in Class resources and a team to provide complete “end to end” accountability and measurable results for his clients in all major transaction types.

Conrad consistently utilizes proven processes, superior market intelligence, and strong negotiation skills to assist his clients in maximizing their specific real estate goals, securing the absolute best business or deal terms for each transaction type. Conrad’s reputation of representing his clients with honesty, integrity, and professionalism has allowed him to be a valued partner to all his clients and form lasting relationships. Conrad’s recent induction into SIOR confirms he has achieved the highest level of success and that he possesses the highest ethical integrity within the industry.

Jordon Hodges

Transaction Specialist | Elkhart County | Indianapolis, IN

Born in Goshen, Indiana, Jordon Hodges transitioned into commercial real estate after a successful 15-year career in the Hollywood film industry. As a feature film producer, writer, and union actor in Los Angeles, he earned 27 international awards and achieved worldwide distribution for each of his feature film projects.

Today, Jordon brings that same creativity, discipline, and high-level execution to the commercial real estate world, with a particular focus on industrial brokerage and transaction support. His background in filmmaking sharpened his skills in branding, storytelling, marketing, and project coordination—tools that now translate directly into serving clients and supporting deals.

Jordon's work centers on brokerage, transaction coordination, and the use of innovative technology across data, marketing, and business development. He is known for bringing a creative perspective, strong attention to detail, and a forward-thinking approach to every assignment.

Having built a track record in one of the most competitive industries in the world, Jordon now applies that experience to helping create value in commercial real estate and continues to make a strong impact in this next chapter of his career.

Chance Harmon

Corporate Real Estate Specialist | Indianapolis, IN

Chance Harmon is an industrial real estate advisor focused on helping business owners and operators make informed decisions around renewals, expansions, relocations, and long-term occupancy strategy.

Most industrial real estate decisions impact far more than rent – they affect operating costs, labor and logistics efficiency, future flexibility, and risk embedded in lease language. Chance’s role is to bring clarity to those decisions by validating true market leverage, pressure-testing renewal versus relocation scenarios, identifying hidden costs and risks, and aligning real estate strategy with operational goals.

Before entering commercial real estate, Chance built a background in SaaS, strategic sales, and business development. That experience shapes a consultative, data-driven approach focused on trade-offs, timing, and leverage – not just transactions.

Clients don’t work with Chance for listings alone. They work with him for strategy, market intelligence, and execution that supports the business beyond the deal. He holds a strong analytical foundation from his studies in Financial Services at Indiana State University.

If you’re an industrial user evaluating your space over the next 12–24 months or seeking a second opinion, Chance is always open to a conversation.
